

VIDEO PROJECT SCRIPT EXAMPLE #1

The following is a former project from a previous semester that has been edited to give you an example of what I am looking for.

Part #1: The great depression began with the stock market crash of 1929 and was the mad even worse with the dust bowl of 1930. The dust bowl swept through the regions ranging from Texas to Nebraska, and then the stock market crash of 1929 primarily happened on wall street with stock marketers selling their stocks and or no longer investing in stocks due to the overabundance of stock markets failing.

Part #2: The people during the GD had little and lost a lot. Many people lost their homes, unemployment rose to a crazy 25%, international trade collapsed to 65%, and it took the stock markets almost 25years to get back to normal fully. With all of this happening at once it made it very hard for people in this period to live a successful life and to be able to provide for their self and their family.

Part #3: The GD began in the rural south when the south had its agricultural crisis, resulting in the income for farmers to decrease a lot. Most AA in this period were farmers and owned cotton fields to provide for their families; when the agricultural crisis hit, the cotton prices went from 18 cents a pound to 6 cents. With the cost of cotton decreasing, this made many AA nervous, and a lot of them (some 150,000) left working as farmers to try and find better work.

Part #4: President at the time, Franklin D. Roosevelt, created what was called the "New Deal." This deal was supposed to bring relief to families and workers during these challenging times. This new deal was mainly supposed to help AA and stated that they would continue to get equal treatment when finding jobs and getting government funding. Sadly, this didn't last long, and segregation was in abundance.

Part #5: The "New Deal" did help AA get housing, but when that happened, it would later be implemented along the lines of the Jim Crow segregation line. Many white farmers would go and burn down the AA fields, destroy crops, and even kill their livestock to help benefit their market. There was also supposed to be some federal funding going to AA sharecroppers and tenant farmers, but that money went to the hands of the white landlords. The landlords would keep this money for themselves, and when it was time for the AA farmers to pay rent, they didn't have the money to do so, resulting in many of the AA farmers being evicted from the land leaving much AA out of work.

Part #6: The cities were no better for AA; unemployment was double or even tripled than that of white workers. Most entry-level jobs that were primarily AA jobs were no longer available to do for work, or if there still were jobs, their employer would hire a white worker over an AA. The slight chance that AA did find a job would get very little pay compared to the white workers doing the same position.

Part #7: In April of 1939, there was finally some light at the end of the GD. But with this, there were still only 1 in 5 Americans finding jobs, and the whites were still being employed before the AA. There was finally an abundance of employment when the start of WW2 began. With the military needing assistance, some 12 million people were finally able to get a job helping the military in the cause of the war.
